Bullying, difficult relationships and complicated friendships
Presented by Stella O’Malley

The author & psychotherapist, Stella O’Malley, has over ten years experience working as a mental health professional. A regular contributor to the Irish Independent, Stella often appears on national media to speak about mental well being in today’s world. Stella’s first book was the critically acclaimed bestseller, ‘Cotton Wool Kids’ and her next book, released by Gill in the summer of 2017, is about bullying and complicated relationships among teens and tweens.

Every day children in schools all around the world eat their lunch in toilet cubicles. Other children spend entire mornings in class obsessively worrying about who will hang out with them at lunch time. This talk provides an insight into why people bully, how friendships become complicated when some personalities try to gain control and power over their peers, why bystanders don’t intervene, how to protect yourself and your loved ones from bullying and how to recover from social difficulties so that you and your children can move forward with confidence, self-awareness and self-acceptance.

Building Self-Esteem in Young Children

Presented by Dr Mary O’Kane

Self-esteem can be defined as feeling both capable and loved. A child may feel loved but if they are not allowed to develop their own abilities they will not have strong self-esteem. Equally a child might feel very capable, but if they do not feel loved they may experience low self-esteem. Children with strong self-esteem tend to enjoy interacting socially, enjoy group activities, and feel confident to face the world. When faced with challenges they can work towards developing solutions. In this seminar, Dr Mary O’Kane gives parents and preschool practitioners some practical advice on how to support children’s self-esteem.

Helping parents to understand and manage their child’s difficulties with attention, focus and concentration

Presented by Dr Gary Collin, HSE Primary Care Clinical Psychology Service

Many children struggle to concentrate and attend to tasks and demands; in school, pre-school or at home. These difficulties staying focused can be related to lots of different factors and it can be hard as parents to feel confident to know what’s going on and how they can best help. This talk is aimed at helping parents to firstly begin to understand what might be underlying their own child’s difficulties with concentration and sustaining their attention on certain tasks and activities. It will also suggest multiple strategies that parents can use to begin helping their child to manage these challenges. The talk will also give some information on local services and community supports should parents need access to these for their child.

Helping our Teenagers Choose Healthy Relationships
Presented by Teach Tearmainn Psychology Service

It is normal for disagreements and arguments to occur within relationships and both partners should be able to express their different points of view or concerns and discuss them together safely. It is not normal for one partner to feel threatened, too frightened to fight back, or unsafe to disagree or express their opinions.

This talk will look at how parents can help our teenagers to choose healthy relationships by knowing the signs of unhealthy relationships.

Building your Daughters Self-Esteem
Presented by Clare Crowley Collier, Counsellor from Family Matters

These are challenging times for girls. They are coming of age in a more media-saturated and sexualised culture facing incredible pressures to be perfect and beautiful. For girls to successfully navigate these years it’s important that their self-esteem remains intact.

Parents will learn practical strategies for building self-esteem, so that their daughters are listening to their own voices and living up to their own expectations and not those of others.

Maynooth Library: Tuesday 14th November 7pm

Self Esteem, Confidence and Resilience
Presented by Dr Mary O’Kane

These three aspects of development are key in preparing children for so many aspects of their lives both as young children and in supporting children as they transition into adulthood. Teenagers are under so much pressure today, building these strong supports in childhood can help them to negotiate difficulties later in life.

In this seminar, Dr Mary O’Kane explains the interaction between these three aspects, and offers practical advice on how to support children in these important areas.

Celbridge Library: Thursday 23rd November 7pm

On being a parent in Action
Presented by Kildare Youth Services

This 2 hour active workshop helps parents explore the different ways they can, sometimes unknowingly, get stuck operating from old or restricted ways of parenting. Often these roles and role responses are self limiting and can make parents feel isolated, angry and limited in how to respond with credibility, flexibility and spontaneity to problems as they arise. This workshop will challenge and support parents to experience themselves in a new and more enriching way and add value to their engagement with members of their family and more broadly.

Naas Library: Monday 30th January 10am

The self reflecting parent
Presented by Kildare Youth Services

This 1.5 hr talk looks at how parents need to operate more from a model of self care. It will encourage you as a parent to use and trust your intuition as a parent. The talk will focus on the joy and challenges of communicating with their adolescents and guide you to see your young person’s (challenging) behaviour as having meaning for them.

Newbridge Library: Wednesday 1st March 10am
The Legal Rights and Responsibilities of Unmarried Parents
Presented by Veronica Black, Information and Training officer with Treoir

This talk will focus on The Children and Family Relationships Act 2015. The new legislation has radically changed family law. The talk will brief participants on the main provisions that came into effect on the 18th January 2016.

These provisions relate primarily to guardianship, custody, access and maintenance and include the following:
A non-marital father will automatically become the guardian of the child if he lives with the child’s mother continuously for at least 12 months, including not less than 3 months with the child, at any time after the child is born. Until now non-marital fathers have never been automatic guardians of their child. This provision is not retrospective: only cohabitation after the commencement date will be taken into account. The Act was commenced on the 18th January 2016.
